Description:

More than just a flower!

Flower effects definitely are real classics within the illumination industry. Whether on dance floors or stages, there are only very little people, who haven't seen this effect in action. But have you already seen a flower effect that is equipped with an additional prism effect? The result of this unification is called EUROLITE DM-250 and it is really impressive. Because just like in a common flower, there are gobos projecting patterns and forms on walls and floors. But before the beams exit the housing they get extra deflected by a 3-facet prism. So the beams or the hence resulting images, are not always projected to the same points, but spread even more in the room than a common flower. By the way, in comparison with standard LEDs, the beautiful light of the ELC lamp shines a bit brighter.
